Ten Fun Facts About Gorillas

1. Just like humans have unique fingerprints, every gorilla has a special pattern on its nose that makes it completely one-of-a-kind.
2. Gorillas are some of our closest relatives in the animal kingdom, sharing about 98% of their DNA with humans.
3. An adult male gorilla is the boss of the group, and he gets a patch of silver hair on his back when he grows up. He is called a silverback.
4. A group of gorillas is called a troop or band. A single troop usually has one main silverback leader, a few females, and their babies.
5. Gorillas don't sleep in the same spot twice. They bend branches and leaves to make a cozy new nest on the ground or up in the trees before bedtime.
6. A grown male gorilla can lift up to 10 times its own body weight.
7. Wild gorillas mostly eat tasty plants, leaves, stems, shoots, and fruit. Some of them also like to snack on tiny bugs like ants.
8. Gorillas are very clever. They have been seen using sticks to measure how deep a puddle or stream of water is before trying to cross it.
9. Gorillas have over 25 different vocal sounds, including grunts, barks, and roars. They also beat their chests to show off or warn others to stay away.
10. Newborn babies are tiny (about the size of a human baby) and cling to their mom's fur. When they get a little older, they love to play tag, climb trees, and do somersaults just like human kids.
